Course overview

Your creative content could be your biggest untapped business asset - or your greatest legal liability. In today's user-generated content economy, understanding Creative Commons licensing isn't just about legal compliance - it's about unlocking new revenue streams, expanding your market reach, and building strategic partnerships that traditional copyright restrictions would never allow. It's also about avoiding infringement of someone else's rights by accident

The digital landscape has fundamentally transformed how creative works generate value. Platforms like YouTube, TikTok, Google and X have created ecosystems where content creators, businesses and users collaborate through sophisticated licensing frameworks. Yet most organisations are sitting on valuable intellectual property without understanding how to leverage Creative Commons licensing to maximise both protection and commercial opportunity.

This isn't about giving your work away. It's about leveraging it. It's about knowing when you have to pay for and do not have to pay to use the IP of others – or when and how to give a credit. In short, it's about strategic IP management that amplifies your business impact. Creative Commons licensing operates within traditional copyright law to create powerful new business models. By understanding the intricate relationship between copyright fundamentals and open content licensing schemes, you can make informed decisions about when restrictive copyright serves your interests and when Creative Commons licensing accelerates your goals. This strategic approach allows your creative works to circulate more widely while maintaining the control and attribution that protects your brand and business interests.

You'll master the evolution and architecture of Open Content Licensing, understanding how various OCL schemes create different business opportunities. The course provides comprehensive coverage of Creative Commons' sophisticated three-layer licensing structure and detailed analysis of the six core licences, each designed for specific strategic objectives. Through practical tips and real-world guidance, you'll learn to navigate the nuances of each licensing option, understanding exactly when and how to deploy them for maximum business impact.

Companies that master Creative Commons licensing today are building the partnerships, audience reach, and market positioning that will define tomorrow's competitive landscape. This training provides the strategic framework and practical expertise to turn your creative assets into engines of business growth while maintaining the legal protections your organisation requires.

Presenter

Mark Weston

Mark Weston has run his own law firm, Weston Legal, since 1 January 2024. He is also a consultant at Hill Dickinson LLP where he joined in February 2016 as a partner and Head of its Commercial, TMT & IP Practice. Before that, he was a partner and Head of the Commercial/IP/IT Team at Matthew Arnold & Baldwin LLP and before that, he spent several years at Baker & McKenzie in London and Chicago and has also previously been seconded to Hewlett Packard and other technology businesses. He changed role to become a consultant in Hill Dickinson's London office in January 2024.

Expertise: Mark's practice covers both non-contentious and contentious matters in all areas of commercial law, intellectual property law, information technology law, Internet, electronic commerce and on-line services law. He specialises in commercial and Tech issues. Mark is used as a 'trusted adviser' by many clients in all sorts of businesses and often acts as 'private practice in-house counsel' for many clients. He specialises in tech and internet businesses.

Clients: Just some of Mark's more well-known clients include Elstree Film Studios, RTL Group S.A., Sykes Cottages, Retailcorp Brands LLC, The Gulf Marketing Group, Moneynetint Limited and the BBC.

Some detail: Mark has extensive experience in advising clients on all manner of commercial matters (such as business planning and solutions, franchising, distribution, agency and marketing) through branding and intellectual property exploitation and licensing, to advice and documentation regarding hardware and software issues (such as development, licensing, maintenance and distribution, SaaS and cloud, Internet transactional solutioning, B2B, B2C and B2G electronic commerce, S-commerce and M-Commerce, social media, outsourcing, facilities management, procurement, IT policies, data protection (privacy), GDPR and freedom of information issues as well as artificial intelligence (AI)). He has a particular expertise in new digital business and revenue streams. He is also experienced in dealing with software disputes and IT litigation. The increasingly extensive media side of his practice relates primarily to publishing (both real world and digital content), to games and gaming platforms (and particularly transmedia technologies), advising companies about their advertising onscreen, online and in print and managing their public communications strategies generally (dealing with the CMA and ASA in the process) – and also a smattering of television, film and music exploitation. Recently he has been very active in AI advice.

More unusual:

Mark has previously spent several months on secondment to Hewlett Packard and he has also been seconded to assist in the legal problems arising in new technology companies such as Symbian. From 2000 to 2001, Mark was resident in the Chicago office of Baker & McKenzie advising US clients on European and UK aspects of IT and electronic commerce law and practice.

Mark is the author of the Legal Practice Companion, a parallel text book used at several law schools, the editor of the IP and Media Law Companion as well as the rest of the Companion series of books published by Bloomsbury Professional, Tottels, Cavendish Publishing and Oxford University Press. He has noted numerous reports for the IT Law Reports and is widely published in Computing, Computers & Law, Computer Law & Security Report, IT Law Today, Intellectual Property World, Solicitors Journal and many other journals both online and offline. Mark has also authored articles syndicated in the national and trade press and is regularly quoted in national newspapers and is heard on radio as an expert in his fields. Mark is the author of the Business Names on the Internet chapter in the PLC Ecommerce Manual as well as numerous other articles on various Commercial & IT law topics.

Mark lectures regularly on all Commercial, IP and IT law topics, including at the IBC IT 'Summer School' Programme in Cambridge, England; the Falconbury and MBL two-day and three-day Commercial Contracts seminars (run several times a year) and IT Contracts seminars (run three times a year) in London; and he has previously lectured at the Annual On-line & Internet Commerce Law Institute seminar in Chicago and tutored at University College London. He also runs a programme of bespoke training schemes on commercial law, IP law, IT law, Al law and data law as well as soft skills programmes such as negotiation skills and presentation skills.

Finally, you may have seen that Mark likes blogging and writing books, which are available at all good bookshops! He also appears regularly on BBC1 (usually providing advice on-screen to BBC Watchdog) and also on Sky News as a legal commentator, as well as trying to avoid the huge quantity of pink powder the TV make-up girls want to apply to his increasingly receding hairline.
