Course overview

In today's highly competitive and regulated procurement environment, getting the proposal right is about more than just responding to a brief - it's about creating a clear, commercially strong and legally robust offer that meets customer needs, manages business risks and showcases why your offering is the preferred option.

This practical and intensive training course has been expertly developed to help commercial and contracts professionals master the art of crafting compelling proposals that serve as both legal and sales documents. From understanding legal positioning in the bidding process to confidently defining scope, pricing risk and articulating value, the expert trainer will explore every critical element that strengthens proposals and increases win rates.

You'll also learn how to clearly align your proposal with your customer's decision-making criteria, showcase your organisation's unique offering and manage the entire bid lifecycle with structure, compliance and clarity.

Whether you're dealing with RFPs, RFQs or ITTs, this training course will help you build persuasive proposals that appeal to potential customers in meeting their needs while protecting your exposure to potential risks.

Benefits of attending

By attending this training course you will:

- Learn how to develop strategic, customer-focussed proposals that focus on client's needs and priorities
- Reduce legal risk by understanding how proposals become binding and how to avoid hidden legal pitfalls
- Understand how to enhance risk management by aligning price to risk exposure and limiting liability with effective wordings
- Get to grips with developing clear value propositions that differentiate your offer
- Master bid processes by streamlining the process and ensuring compliance through structured internal reviews
- Enhance your executive summaries and communicate with impact
- Gain confidence in engaging with procurement professionals during the bid process

Who should attend?

This training course will be particularly valuable for all professionals involved in drafting, negotiating or reviewing proposals, including:

- Commercial managers
- Contracts managers
- Contract negotiation specialists
- Proposal / Bid managers
- Project managers
- Business development managers
- Strategic account managers
- Procurement managers
- Operations managers
