Overview

Whether it's giving constructive feedback, addressing poor performance, managing conflict or raising a sensitive issue, difficult conversations are an unavoidable part of working life. Yet many people delay them, avoid them altogether or enter them without a clear strategy.

This practical, highly interactive session introduces The Conversation Maze – a simple framework that helps participants navigate challenging conversations with greater confidence. Rather than relying on scripts or rehearsed responses, participants will learn how to adapt as conversations develop, recognise common turning points and choose responses that keep discussions constructive and focused on the desired outcome.

Through practical models, facilitated discussion and an interactive workplace exercise, participants will develop the confidence to approach difficult conversations with greater clarity, flexibility and purpose.

Benefits of attending

By the end of this session participants will be able to:

- Prepare effectively for difficult conversations
- Start conversations positively and confidently
- Recognise common conversational crossroads and respond constructively
- Ask questions that encourage understanding rather than defensiveness
- Keep conversations focused on outcomes rather than emotions
- Adapt their approach as conversations take unexpected turns

This engaging 90-minute session combines practical models, facilitated discussion and an interactive exercise, providing participants with a structured approach they can immediately apply to challenging workplace conversations.

Who should attend?

Designed for all professionals of any industry, including customer-facing staff and anyone who needs to influence others, handle disagreement constructively and build stronger working relationships. Ideal for both new and experienced professionals who want greater confidence in managing conflict, difficult conversations, challenging behaviours and workplace negotiations.
